These 10 high school graduates will receive $10,000 per year for up to four years toward college expenses. To date, the scholarship program, now in its 14th year, has awarded $9.02 million to 226 students from 42 states and attending more than 120 undergraduate campuses. 2024 recipients were recognized at an exclusive Scholars Retreat at the Reagan Library, including leadership-development activities and a formal awards program.

To qualify, students must:

- Demonstrate the attributes of leadership, integrity, drive, and citizenship within their communities, schools, and workplaces
- Display strong academic performance (minimum 3.0 grade point average/4.0 scale or equivalent)

- Be current high school seniors attending high school within the United States, (including any U.S. territories or commonwealths), and graduating in the current academic year. Applicants living on a U.S. Armed Forces base and attending high school outside the U.S. are eligible.
- Plan to enroll in a full-time undergraduate course of study at an accredited four-year college or university in the United States for the entire upcoming academic school year
- Be citizens of the United States of America

“Each year, we are encouraged by the vast achievements of our GE-Reagan Foundation Scholarship Program candidates,” said Richard Schroeder, Chief Education Programming Officer, Ronald Reagan Presidential Foundation and Institute. “As our 2024 recipients set out to contribute to college communities around the country, we are proud to deploy them in the name of President Reagan in an effort to advance his enduring legacy and principals.”

“GE Aerospace is proud to play a role in supporting these young leaders and their scholastic achievements,” said Meghan Thurlow, Head of Global Public Affairs, GE Aerospace. “They represent a continuation of President Reagan’s legacy of citizenship and public service that developed during his work highlighting the innovative efforts underway at General Electric facilities across the country prior to becoming President.”

The GE-Reagan Foundation Scholarship Program has been cited nationally as a top college scholarship, including recently by Forbes.com.
