Jamie Dimon, Gov. Mike Dunleavy, Director Michael Kratsios, Sen. Roger Marshall, M.D., and Additional Leaders to Speak at Reagan National Economic Forum

New speakers underscore RNEF's role as a leading convening for economic policy, markets, and American competitiveness

WASHINGTON, D.C. – The Ronald Reagan Presidential Foundation and Institute today announced additional confirmed speakers for the 2026 Reagan National Economic Forum (RNEF), including Mr. Jamie Dimon, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of JPMorganChase; Gov. Mike Dunleavy, Governor of Alaska; Hon. Michael Kratsios, Assistant to the President and Director of the White House Office of Science and Technology Policy; and Sen. Roger Marshall, M.D., United States Senator from Kansas.

These leaders will join a growing roster of top business executives, senior policymakers, scholars, and innovators convening May 28-29, 2026, at the Ronald Reagan Presidential Library in Simi Valley, California.

RNEF is designed to serve as a premier U.S.-based economic forum, bringing together leaders across sectors to engage in substantive, bipartisan discussion and debate on policies that advance growth, innovation, and opportunity for all Americans.

“At a time of significant challenges and opportunities, RNEF is bringing together preeminent leaders who are shaping the direction of the U.S. and global economy,” said David Trulio, President and Chief Executive Officer of the Ronald Reagan Presidential Foundation and Institute. “The addition of these speakers underscores the Forum’s role as a place for serious, solutions-oriented engagement on the future of American economic leadership.”

The newly announced speakers bring perspectives spanning financial markets, state-level economic leadership, and emerging technology – key areas shaping the national economic agenda amid intensifying global competition and rapid innovation.

“From capital markets to technological transformation to innovative state-level solutions, these voices will ground the Forum’s discussions in real-world leadership and decision-making,” said Roger Zakheim, Washington Director of the Ronald Reagan Presidential Foundation and Institute. “RNEF is designed to be the place where top leaders focus on policies that will ensure that America succeeds in the face of fierce global competition.”
