NOTES/COMMENTS:

Dear Mrs. Reagan:

My sincerest personal condolences on your loss today. I feel the loss as well, having come to know the President first as the head of the Government that I served for so many years as the Assistant Director-General Counsel of the FBI, then as a client of our law firm when Ted Olson and I assisted him during the long months of the Iran-Contra matter and his testimony in court in the Poindexter case, at which time I enjoyed the opportunity to meet you and the President in your home, and finally for the last several years during which I have been able to help the President and you in regard to Presidential Records matters, executive privilege issues, the ongoing Hinckley matter, and several other legal issues.

Throughout our developing association over the years, increasingly I have seen how wonderfully loyal and strongly supportive you remained to your Ronny. Your courage has been an example for all who have loved ones who fall victim to such serious illness and I have a deep and abiding respect for your strength of character.

As you face the present and contemplate the future, please remember that you have not only a long-time counsel here but also a friend whom you may call upon for support.

Sincerely,
