July 6, 2021

It is my honor to join the Ronald Reagan Presidential Foundation and Institute in commemorating Mrs. Nancy Reagan's Centennial Celebration. As we celebrate her 100th birthday, we are reminded of her countless contributions to our Nation and its people.

Mrs. Reagan's legacy is an enduring representation of a dedicated First Lady. From her warm and diplomatic presence on the world stage to her love and patriotism for America, she has inspired countless women and earned the admiration of many.

Alongside President Reagan, she recognized America's greatness while acknowledging issues plaguing our citizens across the Nation. Her "Just Say No" campaign brought attention to a matter that is still relevant today as we continue to educate our country's youth about substance abuse and prevention and fight the opioid crisis.

Mrs. Reagan will always be a portrait of grace and strength. As she stood by the love of her life, she worked tirelessly to support his mission to secure the blessings of liberty, freedom, and justice for all. Americans are grateful to Mrs. Reagan for her devoted service to our country.
