The Ronald Reagan Presidential Foundation and Institute announces two finalists of the 2023 Mid-West Regional Debate Series.

(Kansas City, MO.) Today, The Ronald Reagan Presidential Foundation and Institute is proud to announce the two finalists of the Great Communicator Debate Series Mid-West Regional Competition held in Kansas City, Missouri on the campus of the Harry S. Truman Presidential Library & Institute.

Congratulations to our first place finisher, Mason Renner from Rockhurst High School and our runner-up, Solomon Naraine also from Rockhurst High School See attached photo.

The top two finalists from each of the regional events earn a place in the National Championship where they receive an all-expense paid trip to the Ronald Reagan Presidential Library in Simi Valley, CA as well as earning their share of $50,000 in scholarships.

The Great Communicator Debate Series (GCDS) is currently on its National tour with five in-person regional competitions and two online events with the finals hosted in Simi Valley, CA. “The program is designed to showcase the debate and influence skills of high school students across the country,” reported Megan Gately, Director of Learning & Engagement at the Reagan Foundation. “Engaging in civil discourse through debate, where students learn that every issue has two sides, empowers them to be well-rounded citizens who can express their views and respect the views of others--just like President Reagan did.”
